PLACE
The Matobo Hills, affectionately known as “The Matopos”, is a very special place, both ecologically and historically. The Matobo Hills were proclaimed a World Heritage Site in 2003. The Hills are over 2.5 billion years old and have hosted mankind for the past 100,000 years. Within the historic area is found the greatest concentration of rock art to be found anywhere in the world. They have been home not just for the bushman, but for various Bantu tribes, including the Ndebele nation. They are the burial ground of Kings and Heroes, and there is a tapestry of forts and battlefields. The valleys between the Hills are seasonal wetlands, which sustain a rich number of fauna and flora species. The Hills possess the greatest variety of tree species south of the Zambezi, a diffusion of plant species, and a rich legacy of rare and unique plants. The area also plays home to the greatest variety of birds of prey in the globe, and the largest numbers of black eagle per square kilometre. The black eagle population is the subject of the longest running bird study anywhere in the world. The Game Reserve in the Matobo Hills is reputed to have the biggest leopard concentration to be found anywhere and contains both black and white rhino. The largest black mambas are also found here. At the bottom of the food chain is a population of dassie (rock hyrax) that sustains much of the predator pyramid. The Rhodes Matopos National Park, or Matobo National Park, is the oldest in the country, with its origins in the will of Cecil John Rhodes who bequeathed his Matopos estate for the benefit of the people of Bulawayo. We will take up that legacy and use the Hills for two days of hard recreational activity as we run through the Eastern section of this special place.

PURPOSE
The MHTR was initiated primarily as a means of promoting awareness of the Matobo World Heritage Site. The secondary purpose is to raise funds for the Matobo Conservation Society. These funds are spent on projects for the promotion of the Matobo Hills World Heritage Site. Previous beneficiaries have been the National Park, National Museums and Monuments and the local communities.

ORGANISERS
This event is organised annually by the Matobo Conservation Society. MCS members serve on the organising committee, and volunteer to help with the waterpoints. No funds are used to enrich any of the individuals involved.
PARTNERS & SPONSORS
The event takes place with the support of Camp Dwala. There are three levels of sponsorship, GOLD, SILVER and BRONZE, and our sponsors assist with funding the event in return for advertising in the route notes booklet and at the event. Please visit our website for information about the current sponsors, or contact the Secretary if you wish to support the event as a sponsor.

EVENT HISTORY
The MHTR made its debut in 2016, and was held in late March, which is often wet. In subsequent years it was moved to May, but in 2020 was delayed until September because of the Covid shutdown. The participants all preferred the September dates, and future events will be held in late August or early September before the hot weather sets in.

GENERAL INFORMATION
The MHTR is a two-day off-road trail run event, held entirely within the Matobo Hills World Heritage site. The route is designed to take participants through some very rugged terrain and enjoy some magnificent scenery. There are no route maps, the run is based entirely on GPS tracks that are uploaded for registered participants just before the event.

Over succeeding years, the course has been refined and altered so that today it represents one of the finest two-day routes to be found in Southern Africa. That combined with the camaraderie around the campfire each night, has created an event that is praised by all who have participated.

THE EVENT
- The MHTR is a two-day stage race through the magnificent Matobo Hills, summiting Mwazi, the highest point in the Matopos, and is run entirely within the Matobo Hills World Heritage Site, making the event unique in trail runs.
- Casual runners can also enter the second day only.
- Entries for the stage race are initially limited to 50 runners, so enter early, and get training!
- Runners will be well looked after during the full duration of the race, with meals and accommodation taken care of should they choose the “In-Village” option at Camp Dwala. They will stay in the very cosy Camp Dwala, with hot showers and either lodges or tents (allocated on a first come first served basis). This venue hosts the annual Matobo Hills World Heritage Mountain Bike Challenge, the Matobo Classic MTB, Ironwill Zimbabwe and other events.
- Please note that the “In-Village” option is primarily for stage runners only, and family members who are not entering the stage race can only be considered on application.
- The “Out-of-Village” option is for stage runners who would prefer to organise their own accommodation for the weekend, and is perfect for those who would prefer to have their families around to support them. Out-of-Village options will be provided on request, and include Zindele Safaris and Morning Glory. It will also include meals at Camp Dwala for the participant during the race.

- The second day of the stage race is also open to runners who would prefer just to enter one day only. This day is perfect for the whole family, with plenty of activities, great food and drinks, and various race distances to choose from to keep everybody entertained. Athletes taking part in the one-day event will start AFTER the event competitors on Sunday.
